Atkins Hand Rip and Panel Saws

Silver Steel

SILVER STEEL is the invention of E. C. Atkins, the founder of E. C. Atkins and Company. He was the first saw manufacturer to realize that expert mechanics would appreciate value and quality. SILVER STEEL was born of this idea.

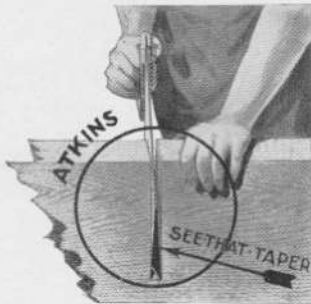

It is manufactured under a special formula of E. C. ATKINS AND COMPANY. Nothing but the finest ingredients are used. The result is a steel equal to the finest razor steel, tempered by scientific means to assure long edge holding qualities.

No saw is a genuine SILVER STEEL saw unless the name SILVER STEEL is plainly etched on the blade.

Taper Grinding

Exaggerated for the sake of clearness.

Showing action of ATKINS taper grinding.

Taper grinding produces a saw, say 20 gauge along its entire tooth edge, 20 gauge on its back at the butt, and from 23 to 24 gauge on the back at the point, and—now mark this well—gradually tapering throughout the blade from the thickest toward the thinnest point. This allows the saw to cut rapidly with very little set. You should realize the distinction between ATKINS TAPER GRINDING and the so-called thin back saw which is ground an even thickness along the tooth edge and simply dubbed off somewhat thinner on the back.

Smithing

The smithing of a hand saw is the process which enables the blade to run true. It is not apparent to the naked eye, and for this reason is omitted from many saws. In the ATKINS plant, the process of smithing is deemed one of the most important features in the manufacture of saws, and we employ only the most skilled and experienced men for this work.

The Finish

ATKINS SILVER STEEL saws may be easily distinguished by the beauty and fineness of their polish. The famous Damaskeen and mirror finishes are used only on ATKINS saws. Each ATKINS saw is etched on the blade with the ATKINS name and AAA trade-mark for identification.

Handle

Note the wrist is free from strain.

We make two styles of handles—the old style straight across shape and the ATKINS improved perfection pattern. The distinction between the old style and Perfection will be apparent upon noting the illustration which shows the Perfection handle on a saw, and a skeleton outline of how the same saw would hang with an old style handle.

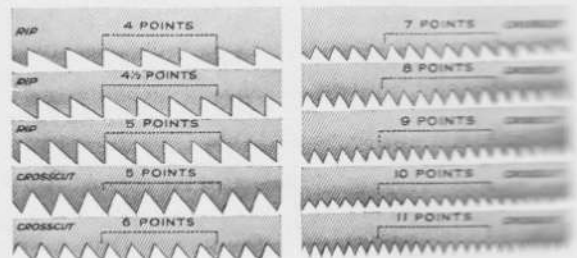

The position of the old style handle (dotted lines) shows the blade downward so that the point of greatest energy—namely, in a straight line from the elbow through the saw arm and wrist—is directed against the BACK of the saw. This forces the operator to exert a downward pressure with his wrist in order to secure a proper cutting form.

Now, note the Perfection handle, which is the one shown most prominently in the picture. Apply the straight line test to this saw and you will find that the point of greatest energy is directed immediately upon the CUTTING TEETH.

There is no strain on the wrist and every count of pressure counts. The Perfection handle comes on saws Nos. 53, 65, 82, 400 and 401.

IMPORTANT—Do not overlook the fact that we make the old style straight across handles when preferred, in certain numbers of hand saws.

Points Per Inch

To assist in ordering please note particularly that the term "points per inch" in saw teeth indicates the number of tooth points within one inch. There is always one less tooth per inch than points per inch.

How Packed

ATKINS SILVER STEEL saws Nos. 400, 401 and Junior Mechanic hand saws are packed in moisture proof bags and in individual blue and white boxes and fully labeled. Other SILVER STEEL saws are contained in moisture proof bags—one-third dozen to a box attractively labeled in blue and white. Each SILVER STEEL saw has a blue and yellow price tag while a green and white tag is attached to Sheffield grade saws.
